

Day 1

Well, that didn't go as expected.

Grimm and I made it through the book with Ruck physically intact. However, Ruck and Grimm have no memories and I..... I seem to have lost my powers. However, my memory is intact. I am unsure if I have lost the favor of Kelemvor or if I just used up too much "juice" trying to keep us together. Thankfully, while they don't fully remember me... our bond seems to still be there.

Interestingly, Ruck seems to have been "branded" as an agent of Kemerovo. This should be interesting.

Meanwhile, we've found ourselves in Drow slave pens. Not an ideal setting. But considering we've made it through the hells in one piece (mostly), it could be worse. I have every confidence we'll find an even worse situation to be in (and jump in face first) soon enough.

I do think we'll have to take a few of our fellow prisoners with us. There is a gnome and an elf. Both have that "I might be useful later" look to them. I suppose time will tell.
